Autumn Rains Helping Riffs Fight French

Continued Downpour Brings European Troops' Operations

Little Damage Done by

Morale Not Disturbed

FEZ, French Morocco, Sept. 28.—Continued rains along the French front in Morocco have made the roads impracticable for motor transport and are severing the telegraph and telephone communications between Fez and Tan, on the eastern part of the front. The rain appears to have halted operations on the French side.

The Rifians, however, made a counter-attack in the sector of Kell-el-Lou. They also made a spirited attack on the French positions at El Hlane, in the central part of the front. Their attacks, French reports say, were scattered by machine gun and artillery fire.

Treasure Hunters Fail To Gain Atlantic Gold

Merida Expedition Returning to Port Without Four Million Dollar Cargo of Bullion and Jewels—Rough Weather Brings Operations to Stop

By BRADLEY KELLY
(Special Correspondent of the Colonist and North American Newspaper Alliance, copyright, 1925, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

ABOARD SALVAGE STEAMER
SPRAY, off Virginia Capes, Sept.
28.—By Radio.—The treasure hunting expedition in search of the 34,000,000 cargo of the sunken steamship Merida reluctantly lifted its anchors today and sailed for New York, abandoning its quest until next spring.

No more decent diving weather may be expected until May. Then the New York syndicate of sportsmen and society leaders which has financed the venture will renew the quest.

"Heavy weather has thus far defeated us in our attempt to bring up the treasure," said Fred Neilson, salvage master, "but we have made excellent progress toward our end. We spent the month of June in locating the wreck. Since that time we have taken advantage of every spell of good weather to explore the hull and clear a way through thousands of tons of treacherous debris to the strong room on the liner."

The path to the treasure is now clear, but many days of fine weather will be required to blast away the bulkhead and bring up the twenty-five tons of gold and bullion. We shall therefore have to wait for the salvage of May and June to complete our task."

In the past two months the divers have made thirty descents to the wreck which is located at the extreme diving depth of 214 feet, where pressure is ninety-five pounds to the square inch. The descents have averaged twenty-one minutes of working time at the bottom, considered a good record under the conditions endured.

Railway Merger Not His Scheme Says Party Head

Never Proposed Amalgamation of C.N.R. and C.P.R., Declares Leader—Wild Expenditure Must Stop

FORT WILLIAM, Sept. 28.—"I have never proposed amalgamation of the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways," said Hight Hon-Arthur Meighen, in the course of a speech here tonight in support of the candidate of Hon. R. J. Manion in the constituency of Fort William. "I have plainly stated, and over and over again that the flooding of new capital into the system for Meriba hotels, luxuries of every kind, new real estate investments, radio systems and the like must cease. If they don't, then bankruptcy will result and that is the worst of all."

Mr. Meighen linked with the railway problem, the question of immigration and accused the King Government of having given the country
"policies galore, but no immigrants."
"Unless we pour people into this country we cannot make the railways pay," he added, and "show in the world can you expect people to come to Canada if there is no work for them to do?"

"A constructive post-war immigration policy should have been formulated long ago," he said, "since the Mackenzie King Government had a majority, not of one, but of sixty-five or sixty-six."

He ascribed the emigration of Canadians to the United States to the lower tariff policy of the present Government, and added: "Not any one,
not any ten of foreign-born immigrants can replace a single Canadian-born and Canadian-educated son or daughter who has gone to the United States to find work."

British Aviators Plan
Surprise in A.S. Races

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Assuming that they "have something up" their sleeves" to be shown in the races for the Schneider seaplane cup which will be flown at Baltimore, October 24, the British aviators who will compete in this contest have left for the United States. The British team is said to be the best equipped flying expedition that ever left England. Its captain is Captain C. R. Wilson, and the pilots are Captain Henry Riard, Hubert Broad and Bert Hinkler. With them are the designers of the machines and a party of engineers and riggers.

Hostile Crowds Gather at Dock

Visitors Tour New York With Police Guards—Attacks by Disgruntled Foreign Groups Feared

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—An unofficial League of Nations, composed of more than 200 legislators from Europe, South America, and the Far East, on their way to Washington for the Interparliamentary Union Conference was welcomed here today, first by the mayor and later at luncheons and dinners at which distinguished foreigners and American speakers discussed international accord and friendships.

Police spent a busy day escorting the visitors through the city in sightseeing automobiles and protecting them from the hostile crowds of foreigners anxious to stage demonstrations.

One procession of about 150 men and women formed at the pier where the liner Caronia landed. 155 delegates from Great Britain, Scandinavia and Central European countries, but police dispersed it almost immediately.

The parliamentarians were lunching at the League of Nations' Non-Partisan Association. Former Justice John H. Clarke, of the U. S.
Supreme Court, who presided, praised the work of the League and the Union, and spoke in favor of the general peace protocol for the purpose of settlement of international disputes.

Calling attention to the enormous power she said women now wield in politics, Mrs. Carrie Catt welcomed the foreign women delegates, and made special reference to those from Germany who were due tomorrow.
The presence of German women in the Reichstag, she said, was the crowning effort of women's work for political recognition.

Tonight the British delegation of forty, the largest of the foreign groups, was entertained by the English-speaking union at a dinner where John W. Davis, former ambassador to the Court of St. James, presided.
On Wednesday morning a special train will take the legislators to Washington.

Woman Ruler Would Appoint Own Successor

Begum of Bhopal Goes to London—Wants Son, and Not Grandson, to Ascend Throne

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Heavily veiled and followed by a large entourage of turbaned ministers, secretaries and attendants, the Begum (Princess) of Bhopal, an interesting personality and the only woman ruler of an Indian state, arrived in London last night and was met by a large gathering of Oriental and a representative of the Earl of Birkenhead, Secretary of State for India.

The Begum has come to London on an issue of consanguinity, importance to Anglo-Indian relations, namely: the question of deciding her successor as the ruler of Bhopal. Her eldest son, Nawab Nasir Khan, is dead, and according to the law his son should inherit his grandmother's mantle, but the Princess seems to prefer that the honour should go to her only surviving son, Nawab Hamidullah, and invokes the Islamic custom of poten-tates nominating their own successors.
Several other complications issue here raised by the question of deciding her successor, and the last word rests with the Government of India.

Ancient Sealing Claim Settled

San Francisco Awarded $77,710 for Illegal Seizure
in Nineties

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—In the first of a series of cases in which the United States Government allowed itself to be sued for sums aggregating more than a million dollars for damages for seizure in 1891 of sealing ships that operated in Bering Sea, Federal Judge Frank Kerrigan today awarded $77,710 to Capt. T. H. P.
Whelan, of this city.

The award represents the value of seals which Capt. Whelan's vessel, the La Nina, might have taken in 1891 and 1892 had it not been seized by ships of the United States, and money spent by him as a result of its seizure and condemnation at Sitka.
The condemnation was reversed in 1894 by the United States district court in San Francisco, which held the United States had no jurisdiction over the waters of Bering Sea outside the three-mile limit. The action for damages of which Capt. White-lan's was the first was made possible by an act of Congress providing the suits to be brought against the Federal government.

Work Starts On New Mill

Undertaking Will Extend Operations to Employ One Hundred and Forty Men

Construction upon the foundations of the McMaster-Horton shingle mill, south of Point Ellice bridge, begins today. The C.N.R. is extending the rails to the site from the terminal on the east side of the street, in order that the delivery of the materials may be made directly on the spot where the work is done. The mill is running, and so that when the work is done, the mill is running.

At the commencement the mill will employ about 140 men, all while the work is in progress. The mill has its own markets in the East.
It starts with a market already established and Eastern distributors provided for. The undertaking, therefore, is not one which will come into competition with existing mills.

The enterprise is not to remain a shingle mill alone. Beginning with the fall of about forty men, all while labor, it is intended that the mill shall be at once enlarged to manufacture cedar lumber. By next year the work, it is announced, will be extended that about 140 men will find employment there.

By this system of operation cedar will be cut into lumber of various dimensions, while shorter lengths than those used for this purpose will be utilized in the manufacture of shingles.
The result will be that there will be a more economical use made of the logs than would be possible were the operations confined to either one of the departments alone.

Ocean Gales Stop Sub Rescue Work

Hope Dwindles for Crew of Undersea Boat—Salvage
Attempts Fail

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 28.— Hope dwindled tonight for the safety of the thirty-three men imprisoned in the submarine S-51, which was sunk
last Friday night when she collided off Block Island with the steamer City of Rome.

A fleet of rescue craft, augmented
early today by the huge wrecking ship Monarch, was posted by the elements and rough weather, which caused a suspension of operations about noon.
Gales, it was understood, had been blowing about the S-51, lying in twenty-three fathoms of water, by divers. But the waves tossed the ships bearing the huge cranes about so violently that they were unable to get their machinery into motion.

One attempt to raise the submarine yesterday failed because the weight was too great for the ship that was pulling on her.

While the officers centered their attention on the work of the rescue craft at sea, Lieutenant-Commander H. A. Flanagan, executive officer at the base, took occasion to deny a report from Boston that the S-51 was commanded by "brookies" officers.

The report said an affidavit was in possession of the Ocean Steamship Company officers in Boston to the effect that student officers were in the conning tower when the vessel was sunk.

Lithuanian Delegate Angrily Makes Exit From Geneva Meeting

Airing of Complaints From Memel Territory Raises Storm in League of Nations' Council—Proposal to Examine Protests Against His Country's Rule Brings
Heated Denunciation From M. Galvanuskas

Excited Lithuania Representative Slams Chair on Floor and Departs

GENEVA, Sept. 28.—Shouting defiance of the League of Nations council, M. Galvanuskas, former Lithuanian Premier and now minister to Great Britain, stormed angrily out of the meeting today in the midst of debate on the convention defining the status of the Memel territory.

The action was inspired by the council's decision regarding complaints sent to the League from minorities under Lithuanian rule. The council instructed the secretary-general to transmit copies of such complaints to all the council members, leaving them free to call the matter to the council's attention if the complaints appeared to warrant such action.

"It is none of the secretary-general's business to forward such information at the League's expense," shouted M. Galvanuskas. "You have all got foreign ministers and other diplomatic agents to inform you.
When protests reach you, why don't you take them up with us first, and give us a chance to investigate?"

M. Boncourt, of France, presiding, tried to calm the agitated Lithuanian.
Lord Cecil and M. Hymans, of Belgium, offered to draft a substitute worded so as not to hurt Lithuanian susceptibilities, but M. Galvanuskas slammed his chair to the floor and made his exit.

The Memel territory, with a population of 170,000, was detached from Germany by the Versailles treaty and placed under the control of the Council of Ambassadors. It was handed over to Lithuania in February, 1923, subject to use of the port by both Lithuania and Poland.

Difficulties between Poland and Lithuania over the territory were settled in March, 1924, when the League council ratified a convention prepared by a neutral committee headed by Norman S. Davis.

Remote Spot Selected for Security Talk

Diplomats to Meet in Town
Without Telegraph Connection—Want to Hold Conference in Solitude

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Serious negotiations between the Allies and Germany for a security pact will begin in the remote town of Locarno, on the Swiss border, on October 5. The date and place of the conference was confirmed officially this evening after Herr von Hoesch, the German Ambassador, had spent an hour with Foreign Minister Briand.

Locarno was chosen, it is understood, because the diplomats considered it offered the best possible guarantee against the use of wireless telegraph. The desire of all negotiators is to hold the conference in a remote spot, free from the distractions of the press and the public. The town of Locarno is a small village with

Bus Driver Faces Charge of Assault

Peter Landchick Accused of Making Himself Objectionable While Drunk

Peter Landchick was before Magistrate Jay yesterday with two charges laid against him. One of these was that he had been intoxicated in a public place, which charge was admitted by Landchick and resulted in a fine of $25 being registered against him.

The other charge, a more serious one and a sequel to the first, was that of assaulting Mrs. Elsie Hopkins. The hearing of the latter charge has not been concluded, an adjournment being taken to allow accused to bring any witnesses he might have.

Mrs. Hopkins had invested in an automobile which Landchick operates as a bus. According to Mr. Hopkins, while the accused was intoxicated he invaded his place on Sunday as Mrs. Hopkins was preparing to leave for England. He got into an altercation and proceeded, said Mr. Hopkins, to throw plates from the table at the lady and was prevented from rushing at her by the husband, who is badly incapacitated owing to injuries received in the war. A knife also was brandished, according to the evidence.

Mrs. Hopkins escaped and left for the steamer on her way to England. Mr. Hopkins said that she would not return if Landchick remained in the city. He himself intended to follow his wife.

Accused denied that the affair was anything like as serious as represented. He was given time to get witnesses and also to engage counsel if he desires so to do.

Campaign Opens For Members in Commerce Body

Twenty Teams Start Off on Task to Secure Recruits—First Stage of Drive Closes on Thursday

Spirited Appeal Is Made

At noon yesterday the drive for new members in the Chamber of Commerce commenced. Organized for the purpose previous to the luncheon which was held at noon, the twenty teams had twelve prospective members allotted to each and until Thursday evening will devote all their energies to attaining their objective.

Following the close of the drive on Thursday night the situation will take on a new aspect, and it will, from that time on, become a free-for-all on the part of the membership committee until the whole city has been thoroughly canvassed for members. There was a splendid gathering at the luncheon and with a few short speeches the spectacular side of the drive was concluded. The record of the Chamber in the matter of winning results for the city is felt should be enough to warrant success of the move for new members. Every business man and every professional man in the city, it is agreed, should see the necessity of becoming a member and helping on the work the Chamber performs for the city.

Glad to Join
Mr. Fred McGregor, chairman of the membership committee, read a message he had received from Mr. Harry Leach, of Los Angeles, who was a large buyer of real estate at the recent sale. This was in reply to a message asking him to join the Chamber. The reply was that he was sending the fee and was glad to join the body. He praised the work done in advertising the city of Victoria in Los Angeles which had brought him to the city. He was becoming deeply interested in the place.

The president of the Chamber, Mr. C. P. W. Schwenger, referred to the fact that the movement did not have in it a secondary way for the Chamber of Commerce. It was something in the interests of the city as a whole. The Chamber could not necessarily be essentially a popular organization. It was necessary to conduct affairs along a sane line. This meant keeping quiet in many instances until things were accomplished.

Mr. Schwenger enumerated the various commercial enterprises coming to the city or already established. This fact was having its effect in making Victoria a real commercial centre rather than a tourist resort alone, he said.

Appeals for Members
Mr. B. C. Nicola, vice-president, said Victoria had an issue before her of making the city an industrial centre or becoming a back number. He had nothing to say against the tourist trade but in this age there must be a commercial centre which community that hopes to occupy a larger place in the world.

Victoria had industrial advantages equal to those of any other city in the world. There was no justification for a feeling that Victoria industrially was to take a secondary place in Vancouver and to Seattle. The speaker felt that Alderman Blair for his work as chairman of the Industrial Committee. The speaker felt that Alderman Blair would be ready to admit that the Chamber of Commerce offered better facilities than the city council for securing results in this of industrialism.

Mr. Nicola attributed to the Chamber the securing of the grain elevators and the lumber assembly plant at the outer wharf in Inland Water. There was no other body but devoted itself entirely to creating itself a playground, said Mr. Nicola.

Alderman Blair Complimented
A compliment was paid to Alderman Blair for his part in securing other industries like the shingle mill here. There was no room on this continent for a Chamber that devoted itself entirely to creating itself a playground, said Mr. Nicola.

torla, realizing this position, should develop a new psychology in the direction of attracting to itself the development of industrialism. There was no reason why so much shipping should pass this port to other places. To join the Chamber was not a matter of philanthropy. It was a business proposition for business men of the city.

Another Mill May Open Here

Negotiations Opened for Industrial Works That Will Employ About Seventy-Five

Victoria's advantages as an industrial centre continue to attract attention. The announcement is made that another company, having in view the erection of a saw mill, is seeking a location in the city. The matter has been put up to the Industrial Committee of the Chamber of Commerce and in reason to believe that it will result in the addition of another industrial undertaking here.

For obvious reasons the details connected with the negotiations are not made public. The committee, however, is lending every assistance to the prospective mill operator with the expectation that he will locate here.

The proposition made is for a mill that will employ about seventy-five men.

Crop Traffic Grows In Quarter Century

C.P.R. Moving More Now in Month Than Carried in Whole 1900 Season

WINNIPEG, Sept. 28.—Some comparisons of crop movement on the Canadian Pacific Railway for twenty-five years are now interesting. In 1900 the total wheat crop in the three Prairie provinces amounted to 17,532,546 bushels, which, at the time, taxed the facilities of the railway for several months to move this amount of grain. In 1925, from September 1 up to, and including September 26, a period of twenty-two working days, there were marketed on the Canadian Pacific alone a total of 45,553,981 bushels of wheat and 10,282,593 bushels of other grains, or a total of 55,836,574 bushels. During the same period a total of 31,381 cars, representing 45,524,266 bushels, have been loaded and moved.

In the twenty-two working days so far this month the amount of grain marketed on the Canadian Pacific would be sufficient to feed the entire population of Canada for one year, allowing six bushels per capita for standard consumption.

From Winnipeg 28,450 loads have been moved east since September 1, or an average of 1,081 cars per day. The marketing and loading of grain so far this month have exceeded any previous period in the history of the company by approximately thirty per cent. This notwithstanding the fact that rain in certain portions of the Prairie provinces, especially Alberta, has seriously interfered with the marketing for several days during the past two weeks.

Dr. Tolmie Is Optimistic for Opposition Win

General Conservative Organizer Interviewed in Calgary En Route to East to Engage in Campaign

Many Gains Anticipated

Predicting big gains for the Conservative party in the Maritime provinces, Quebec and Ontario and substantial additions to the party's following in British Columbia and the Prairie provinces, Hon. S. P. Tolmie, former Minister of Agriculture, general organizer for the party in the Dominion, is confident of victory in the Federal election.

Dr. Tolmie cannot see the possibility of his way to Eastern Canada, and was interviewed in the Calgary Herald.

"We have a candidate in each of the fourteen ridings of British Columbia," said Dr. Tolmie to the Herald. "And I never saw so much enthusiasm and vigor among the workers. There is a general feeling that the King Government is due for defeat, and that the Conservatives will be returned with a clear majority."

Majority Needed
"Mr. King said in his opening speech that he had found it impractical to carry on with his present slim majority. It took him four years to find it out. In the event of his party being placed in the same position again, he proposes to go to the country immediately a second time. I am sure the country will not want that."

"Any kind of political form which I have met cannot see the possibility of the King Government obtaining a majority."

"Take the Maritimes. In 1921 the three Provincial governments were Liberal. Now there are only four Liberals in the Prince Edward Island Legislature, three in Nova Scotia and eleven in New Brunswick. In addition it had secured victories in the by-elections held in Halifax and Kent county, former Liberal strongholds. There is every indication that the Maritimes are thinking the same way Federally as they are Provincially. It is useless to suggest that the changes in Provincial government will not have a great effect in the Federal election. The most conservative estimate gives us twenty out of the twenty-nine Maritime seats. Now we hold seven."

"In Quebec I believe that there will be a substantial Conservative gain. The entrance of Mr. Patenaude into the debate there in the Conservative cause is bound to have a great effect."

"In Ontario the Conservative organization at the present time is as near as possible to perfect and sixty-five of the eighty-two seats is a low estimate of what we expect to win."

Dr. Tolmie said that the party expected to get substantial support in the three Prairie provinces, as the party support in many ridings was stronger than it had been for many years.

DAMAGING AGRICULTURE

Canada's Trade Treaty with Australia is to go into effect at the beginning of next month. Whatever benefits it may confer upon either country it contains at least two provisions which will give rise to serious misgivings among a certain portion of the farming population of Canada. These provisions provide that the duty on butter shall be lowered from four cents to one cent per pound and on fresh frozen lamb from three cents to half a cent per pound.

The quick pro quo for these reductions is that the Australians give certain preferences to Canadian manufacturers, and particularly in connection with implements and motor cars. These preferences have been coupled in some minds with the entry of Mr. Vincent Massey into the cabinet of Mr. Mackenzie King. Mr. Massey is interested in the Massey Harris Company, which is a large producer of implements.

In effect what the Canadian Australian Treaty does is to reduce, at most to the point of freedom from duty, the tariff on importation of Australian lamb and butter. In the matter of the former, Australia has 80,000,000 sheep, while Canada has less than 3,000,000. It can be seen at once that the chances of our sheep farmers competing with the lamb products of Australia will be handicapped through the new tariff. The tariff preferences given Australia in the two commodities noted are of serious interest to the Western dairymen and sheep breeders. It may be mentioned that New Zealand now enjoys a preference of one cent, or, in other words, the duty on New Zealand lamb entering this country is two cents instead of three cents, which is the regular tariff. Under that preference there has been a very heavy importation of New Zealand mutton, and Western sheep breeders have protested very loudly in consequence. Now the tariff on Australian lamb has been reduced to half a cent per pound so that it is logical to suppose the outcry from sheep breeders will gather greater volume than ever before.

MOTORING ACCIDENTS

Punch quoting a writer to the effect that the motor car has helped us to see more of the world, asks, "but which world—this or the next?" The growing number of fatalities in motoring and the rapidly increasing use of motor cars is creating a problem which all interested in safety in travel are concerned about. There are two aspects of the problem that have been considered by authorities in different parts of the globe. One is the physical fitness of a driver and the other the question of his ability to drive. It is fairly obvious that there cannot be an examination of every would-be driver. The cost would be too great and the ordinary taxpayer would not stand the strain. Even if there were such an examination the probability is that the test would be elementary. The number of would-be drivers who would be eliminated under such a test would be very small and there is little reason to believe that the safety of travel would be enhanced at all.

In a recent report issued in Britain, by the Committee on the Taxation and Regulation of Road Vehicles it was stated that a large number of accidents were due to loss of nerve at critical moments. No driving test would eliminate this type of driver. Accidents can best be eliminated by reducing speed, and it is in the matter of speed reductions that the authorities should exercise more power than they do at present. That is especially the case in this province where the country roads are so narrow. There is a tendency always to make these roads safer and safer. That tendency is the product of demands coming from motorists and pedestrians themselves, and not particularly from any anxiety on the part of the constituted authorities. The fact remains, however, that nowhere are accidents on the down-grade. They keep on increasing, and the more motor cars there are the greater the death list. It is for the authorities to consider if it is too easy now for a motor licence to be secured. It is for them, too, to concentrate over the years on a policy of widening of roads so that the danger of accidents may be reduced. Seemingly motor cars have come to stay and there should be a policy governing such traffic that is concerned primarily with safeguarding life, limb and property.

EXODUS OF CANADIANS

The Government of this country, because it is engaged in an election, has been printing official information about immigration and coupling with the figures statements about the number of Canadians who are returning to the Dominion from the United States. There is also a reverse side of the picture as illustrated in a dispatch which appeared on our front page on Sunday. This was dated Windsor, Ont., and pointed out that more than 1,000 persons, a majority of them Canadians, entered the United States at Detroit from July 2 up to Wednesday of last week. The dispatch also says that "So many Canadians are applying for authority to leave the Dominion for the States that there is a big list always waiting for the necessary papers." The United States Consul at Windsor says: "We are tied up for three weeks in advance and probably longer, with appointments."

For electioneering purposes the Liberal press of the country has been endeavoring to persuade the people, abetted by the Government, that the exodus of Canadians in search of work is at an end. Apparently, if the number going through Windsor to the American side constitutes any criterion, that is very far from being the case. The Mackenzie King tariff policy is driving people out of the country so that they may seek a livelihood elsewhere. It is a distressful commentary on inability in economic legislation to grasp the needs of the country. The outstanding fact of four years of Liberal rule at Ottawa, years during which there has been trucking to the Progressive ideas of free trade, is that hundreds of thousands of Canadians have been forced to leave their native land, or, as the case may be, the land of their adoption. They are still leaving, as the Windsor dispatch shows, in numbers which illustrate that the disastrous effects of a lower tariff will continue if the Mackenzie King Government is sustained in power.

A LABOR OF LOVE

In the evening of his days that veteran Canadian journalist, Mr. W. L. Cotton, who until a few years ago was editor of The Charlottetown Examiner, is writing a history of his native Province—Prince Edward Island. Having celebrated his golden wedding and concluded nearly half a century of editorial work, it might have been thought that Mr. Cotton would be satisfied to enjoy the rest he has so faithfully earned. Instead, he has undertaken the arduous task of reading old documents and gathering from them, and many other sources, material for exceedingly interesting "Chapters in Our Island Story." There have been appearing since early Summer in the issues of The Charlottetown Guardian. The narrative begins with the visit of Jacques Cartier to the "River of Hoos," and goes on to describe the progress of the people of the colony and Province to the present time.

Not only his friends and fellow islanders, but all who are interested in Canadian history will hope that Mr. Cotton will be given health and strength to complete his self-imposed but congenial task and that the work will soon appear in book form. Mr. Cotton must have a hereditary bent for historical writing. His grandfather, Mr. John Lawson, was author of a brief history of the colony of Prince Edward Island.

Within the last five years Britain's forestry department has planted 52,000 acres in trees. The work this season is covering 22,000 acres. The campaign to prevent the country from becoming treeless is well advanced.

November 9 is Thanksgiving Day. October 29 is the day when the people of Canada have an opportunity to register a decision which will get rid of a Government which has not brought the country prosperity, a decision which would afford them very genuine reason for giving thanks.

W. R. Morson of the Prosperity League of Canada writes: "By protecting production, the United States has built up the greatest individual and aggregate buying power known to man. The way is open for us to follow and obtain the same results if we will but close our ears to the theorists and skeptics, sectional leaders and disorganizers."

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

There is not going to be anything worth while to look forward to, nothing in life to make life worth living, if men who call themselves Advanced Scientists can prevent it. Another of the learned fraternity has been making a special study of the heavens, and we are told to enjoy this Summer while we may, for there will not be another Summer for two years. This learned authority's doleful prediction is based upon a lunar hypothesis, or something of that kind.

Well, the Summer that is not yet past in this part of the world has been about as pleasant a Summer for man and beast and bird as it could be. The parties interested in the concert, are still enjoying it, and hope to enjoy it for another month or two. Possibly if the fishes that swim in the waters of the great deep, in the lakes and in the streams, had had a voice in the determination of the weather, the ideal Summer might have been quite different. The Summers that are to come may be quite different, but we are not going to worry about the future. When the future comes, the present will be the past, and the past will be the future. Meanwhile we point the finger of scorn at the Advanced Scientist who says we shall have no more Summer weather for two years. Sufficient unto the year is the Summer thereof.

Another Advanced Scientist has issued a statement which says that based upon fact, he will call them the ingredients of the average man weigh about one hundred and fifty pounds. Boil those constituents or properties (or ingredients) down and they are resolved into enough fat to make seven bars of soap, enough salt to fill a small shaker, enough iron to make two two-penny nails, enough lime to whitewash two chicken coops, and enough sulphur to kill all the fleas on the average dog.

Having forgotten all we ever knew about the elementary Science of Chemistry, we can neither deny nor confirm this very interesting estimate of the actual value of a human being; but we accept the statement and ask why some of the Advanced Scientists who issue startling pronouncements and secure their publication in the despised newspapers are not resolved into their original elements and turned to practical account, such as incorporation in bars of soap, savoring meat and vegetables, whitewashing chicken coops and slaughtering fleas.

A few months ago the people of Victoria were told that there was practically but one way in which the business salvation of the city could be achieved. That was by the creation of a body to be known as a harbor board. Vancouver's spacious harbor is governed by a harbor board. Immediately that harbor board was created it was given power to levy taxes upon shipping. After the manner of all institutions, including Governments, when given powers to levy taxes, the Vancouver Harbor Board has imposed taxes. Hon. H. H. Stevens declares that the Vancouver Harbor Board has imposed more taxes than the shipping of the port can afford to pay.

The taxes under the board's ministrations are so high, in fact, that business is being driven from the port of Vancouver to other ports. Shippers on the prairies have found out that it is cheaper to route their wheat through Eastern Canadian and American ports than through the port of Vancouver. That is why a smaller quantity of wheat was shipped through the Pacific port of Canada last year than the year before and why thus far there has been comparatively little wheat shipped through Vancouver this year.

Summing up his indictment of the work of the Vancouver Harbor Board Mr. Stevens said: "I will give you another example of the reckless extravagance that has marked the administration of this port. From official records you will find that the number of employees, of all ranks, in the service of the Harbor Commission on December 31, 1921, was thirty-eight. The following year it had increased to forty-six, and in the next twelve months to 347, while the figures for 1924 show a surprising total of 514 employees. The salaries in 1921 amounted to $83,000, and these increased until in 1924 a total of $687,000 was spent for this account."

When Governments or institutions created by Governments impose heavier taxes or charges than business or traffic will bear, the result is disastrous to business or traffic.

The piano is a very fine musical instrument, but we have been told that the piano is not a perfect musical instrument, that even under the skilled hands of great artists the piano is not capable of producing such wonderful musical effects as some of the smaller stringed instruments. An American inventor, who doubtless claims to be a musician, announces that he has made a grand improvement in the defective piano. This genius has equipped the piano with some device that produces the sobbing notes characteristic of the saxophone when blown into by the lungs and manipulated by the skilled fingers of an artist. We shall have to employ some person skilled in the use of robust language to write an opinion of the American inventor who has grafted the saxophone with its soul-sickening "sob stuff" upon the piano.

Ladies' Musical Club

Sir—Will you kindly allow this letter space to be taken up by several points in connection with the Ladies' Musical Club that do not seem sufficiently clear to the public.

In the first place, the season tickets for the professional concerts have nothing to do with the club membership. They are for anyone and everyone who cares to buy them. A circular letter was sent to every member of the club and the few remaining ones were sent individually by members of the executive to people who might be interested in the concert. The fact that these tickets are on sale at so many different places is certainly evidence of the hope that the work of laying the flowers begins in earnest, though the procession is due to start as soon as dusk falls.

Gradually the design of the carpet unfolds itself. Some ten rectangular plots have been chalked out with various designs. The houses facing the street provide the flower petals. The workers for the patches opposite their frontage. Each little group has its master craftsman and artist to see that the handiwork of different colored petals are laid in the right place. All the time as the flowers are being laid down men walk around the edges spraying them with a fine shower of water from vine sprayers. Women bear picturesque old copper pithers, full of water, on their head to the men spraying the delicate surface of the carpet.

There is a savage abundance of color. Bright red poppy and yellow burn predominates. Dark designs in purple lavender and green anemones and tracings of white lilies set off the more vivid colors. The effect is crowned by the red and gold draperies of the altar erected upon top of the gradual ascent to the old Cathedral. Before it lies a sweet-scented rose-petal rug. Down from this altar for some 300 yards there stretches a band of living color with a box-festooned barrier with white Ascension lilies on every post.

Memory of Heroes

In the ancient castle of Rovereto, near Trent, which is being used as an Italian war museum, a huge bell has been hung in memory of the dead. The bell, one of the largest in Europe, coming next after those in Moscow, Cologne and Vienna, weighs five and a half tons and is beautifully carved with a procession of warriors and other figures marching round its circle.

It is to be rung every evening for one minute after the Angelus and on great anniversaries of the war for five minutes.

The Government has set aside special dates which will commemorate the dead of Italy, France, England, America, Belgium and Czechoslovakia. As a final touch of modernity, radio apparatus is to transmit the tones to all the world that cares to listen.—The Living Age.

Flower Carpet at Genzano Festival

The Genzano festival is the only elaborate flower festival that survives in the neighborhood of Rome (writes correspondent of The London Times). It originated with the idea of certain brothers, Leofreddi, to make a design of flowers across the street outside their house on the occasion of the Corpus Christi procession of the year 1778. Instead of just strewing the flowers carelessly over the pavement. The idea was taken up by their fellow-townsmen, and soon the custom arose of paying the whole of the via Liviana, which runs from the central Piazza up the hill to the old Cathedral perched above the lake of Nemi, with a subtly designed carpet of flowers of such size that the fame of Genzano's flower-carpet that on more than one occasion the Pope himself attended the festival.

Popular Review Is Again Issued

Canadian Annual Review Contains Mass of Information About Dominion

The 1924-25 volume of The Canadian Annual Review, which has just appeared, contains several new features that will be continued and developed permanently. One of these is the addition of summaries of the leading events in Canadian National and Provincial affairs covering the current year 1925, up to a few days preceding the actual date of publication. This includes, for example, a review of the session of Parliament and a verbatim report of the findings of the Senate Committee on the Hallway Problem; the Session of the Ontario Legislature; the Nova Scotia elections of August, 1925, with a brief record of the New Brunswick elections in the same month, and the August Official Crop Report.

Another valuable new feature is a Statistical Survey of the past year of Canadian developments, prepared by the Canadian most qualified to compile such a record, H. H. Coats, F.R.S. (Hon.), Chief Dominion Statistician. These statistics cover records for several years past, for comparative purposes, of production in Canada, mining, manufacturing, etc.; external and internal trade, and price financial records, illustrated with charts.

As in every previous volume covering the past 25 years, the new edition of "The Canadian Annual Review" contains a comprehensive record, handled from an independent standpoint, not only of Federal and Provincial affairs, but of other topics of importance to the national life of Canada, such as relations of the Empire, embracing government, changes in Great Britain, political events, and trade relations between the Great Dominions, by Sir John William, a summary of Canada's diplomatic, financial and trade affiliations with the United States by Prof. George M. Wrong, LL.D., and world conditions by Sir George E. Foster.

Under the guidance of an able Editorial Board, the various sections have been treated by a group of representative Canadian writers who are particularly fitted for the subjects they have undertaken: Transportation, Industries, Immigration, Emigration, and Colonization, by W. A. Craik; Education, Journalism and Science, the latter recording the important meetings of the British and Mathematical Associations at Toronto, by Dr. A. H. U. Tolquhoun; Literature, Art, Music and the Drama by Hector Charlesworth; Canadian Books of the Year by George H. Locke, and Women's Work by Emily

Greater Victoria Parley Suggested

The suggestion that a conference be held to discuss the subject was the City Council's reply to the request from the Equimault Board of Trade for information about a Greater Victoria scheme.

Alderman Marchant wanted the council of Equimault and Victoria to discuss the scheme at a joint meeting. It was desirable that a Greater Victoria be brought into being, he said.

The request came from the Equimault Board of Trade, not from the Equimault Council, Alderman Blair pointed out.

It was finally decided to reply to the board, as the city had recently replied to Oak Bay, saying that the council had no concrete scheme at present but was willing to discuss the subject with any body of citizens in the adjoining municipality.

Exhibition of Paintings Will Open on Wednesday

An exhibition of about a hundred original water colors will begin on Wednesday in the Art Shop of Joseph Sommer & Sons, Government Street, and will be open for a few days.

The paintings are the work of Miss M. L. Smith, an artist from Hazelton, who is at present staying in Victoria. They deal with a variety of subjects, particularly landscape, and the sea in all its aspects is a favorite theme of the artist, who treats it with a splendid feeling for color, movement and atmosphere.

Intended for Deer, Bullet Kills Hunter

William James Richardson, of Regina Avenue, Dies as Result of Accident in Highland District Sunday

Verdict Accidental Death

Bleeding to death after receiving a 303 bullet through the left leg just below the groin, William James Richardson, of Regina Avenue, was killed Sunday afternoon while hunting in the Highland district.

Charles Woodward, forty, an employee of the C.P.R. Company, Limited, at the Brentwood substation, was released from custody yesterday afternoon after the coroner's jury had brought in a verdict of accidental death.

Woodward's story as told at yesterday's inquest and to the provincial police whom he summoned immediately after the accident, was to the effect that he had been hunting alone on Sunday morning in the Highland district.

Towards noon he jumped a deer but could not raise his rifle quickly enough to take a shot at it. A moment later he had seen what he had taken to be another deer emerging from the same place. As this second animal doubled back again, Woodward fired at it and the bullet sped through the underbrush and hit Richardson in the left leg just below the groin.

Given for Help

The scene of the accident was about one-and-a-half-hour walk from the water at McKenzie Bay. Woodward had done his best to staunch the flow of blood from the wound. Richardson fainting as the former tore away the clothing from the spot where the bullet entered.

Calling to attract attention, by shouting for aid, Woodward had set off through the bush in search of a telephone. At McKenzie Bay he had met Constable Giesler, chief game warden of the Victoria division of the provincial police, and had told him of the affair. The latter had called a hurry-up call the headquarters in the city and Sergeant Owens and Constable Hatcher had responded.

Following Woodward's call, the police party had gone in to the scene of the fatality and had removed the body on a stretcher.

Meanwhile, the Saanich police had been summoned by other hunters. They took charge of the body and removed it to the Sands Funeral Parlors where the inquest was held by Coroner Dr. K. C. Hart yesterday afternoon.

Well Known in Saanich

The late Mr. Richardson was a well-known resident of Saanich, having lived in retirement on Regina Avenue for the last ten years. He is survived by his widow, resident at home, married sister, Mrs. P. D. Munro, wife of the chief engineer at the William Head quarantine station, and by relatives in other parts of Canada.

Woodward spared no effort to do what he could at the scene of the accident, say the police, and rushed the body to the hospital, where he was exhausted with fatigue and the shock of the affair.

The provincial police yesterday renewed the warning against the wearing of khaki clothing in the bush by hunters.

Vancouver N. Election Documents Destroyed

Documents used in connection with the last Provincial election in the riding of North Vancouver, which, according to a recent order made by Mr. Justice Gregory in Supreme Court, were to be produced for the use of the provincial secretary, do not exist, according to a statement made yesterday by Premier John Oliver.

The law in regard to election documents, which called for the destruction of such papers one year after the date of the election, had been obeyed.

The documents in question were ordered by the court on the application of counsel for those protesting the election of Mr. J. M. Bryson, Liberal, in North Vancouver a year ago last June.

City Controls All Construction Work, Declares Solicitor

Complete control of building operations is vested in the City Council, City Solicitor Pringle announced yesterday.

These controlling powers, which embrace alterations as well as new construction, were granted the city in subsection 2 of section 3 of the Victoria Special Powers Act of 1917. Special clauses added gave the city powers on other matters, among them being wide supervision of all building operations.

Omitted from the Municipal Act, one clause gives the city power to pass any by-law required for "prohibiting and preventing the commission of building operations or repairs, before the deposit of plans or issuance of a permit."

Silk Factory May Open Here

Proposal Made to Seek Local Capital to Manufacture Ladies' Wear

Something rather out of the usual in the line of industrial undertakings has come before the Chamber of Commerce during last week-end. This is a proposition for the establishment in the city of a silk factory that will devote itself to the manufacture of silken goods.

In this connection it is proposed to make silk stockings and also make up from the woven silk imported from the Orient, various articles of women's wear. The proposition as placed before the industrial committee of the chamber is that the enterprise should be financed largely by local capital. Those behind the proposition claim to have studied the situation and feel assured that there is an opening here in this line.

The silk comes this way and passes East only to be made up and then returned to the West in a manufactured state. It is contended that the opportunities are excellent for the development of local trade and also for shipping manufactured goods in this line East.

The investment, it is represented, would not be heavy and would require no specially erected building for the purpose. The committee is investigating the possibilities and with further information will be able to make what to recommend to the chamber.

Cassiar Party Returns Soon

Mr. J. H. Hawthorthwaite Will Arrive From North in Week or Two, According to Letter

Letters received from Mr. J. H. Hawthorthwaite, president of the Stewart Consolidated Gold Mines, convey the information that he will not return from the Cassiar for a week or two. Since the first members of the party came south, Mr. Hawthorthwaite and the remainder of the party have been industriously at work proving up to some extent the character of the holdings that have been acquired. His expected leave shortly, so as to get out before the winter sets in.

Referring to the conditions in the Cassiar, he expresses the opinion that there is a great deal to be gained in placer and quartz mining. In the latter field at the time of his most recent writing, he was investigating what appeared to be very rich ore.

In panining on the holdings located in the former placer fields he tells in the letter of exceedingly rich showings. The details in connection with these will not likely be available until his arrival in a week or two.

Old Resident Passes Away

Mrs. Edward Mallandaine, One of Victoria's Old-Timers, Dies in City

MRS. E. MALLANDAINE Who died at her home on Hincec Street in her ninety-fifth year.

There passed away at the family residence, 160 Hincec Street, on Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Louisa Townsend Mallandaine, widow of the late Edward Mallandaine, in her ninety-fifth year.

Mrs. Mallandaine has been an invalid for the past five years, having been afflicted with an accident in 1919, but it was not until last April that her strength began to fail. Early last week she seemed to be worse, although on her ninety-fourth birthday last Thursday she was able to see a few friends. Since then she has been gradually sinking, and passed away on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Mallandaine arrived in Victoria with her sister in 1862, on board the St. Tynemouth, and, perhaps there was never a ship that arrived at the colony from the Old Country which aroused greater interest. Mrs. Mallandaine and her sister were then the Misses Townsend, and together with sixty other "marriageable ladies," they arrived at James Bay.

Runners came to Victoria that efforts would be made in California to steal some of the young women, as in those days girls were scarce in the West, and anxiety was expressed here that the expected sixty might "not arrive safely."

For some time Mrs. Mallandaine lived on the mainland, later coming to Victoria and lived where the old Y.W.C.A. home used to be on Humboldt Street. In the days Mrs. Mallandaine so vividly remembered and often talked of, crinolines were fashionable, and she well remembered the production of gas lighting in September, 1862.

The late Mrs. Mallandaine is survived by four children, Major E. Mallandaine, Cressat, B.C.; Mrs. W. W. Burroughs, Vancouver, B.C.; Mrs. B. Lawrie, Simcoe Street, and Mr. C. Mallandaine, of the Government Printing Office. Her youngest son, A. Townsend, lives on Clarence Street. There are several nephews and nieces, five grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren. One son, Fred, died in 1891, and her husband passed away in 1905.

The funeral will take place from Haywards' B.C. Funeral Chapel tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Interment will be made in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Eagles' Official Is Visitor to City From Kansas City

Among the visitors to the city yesterday afternoon was Col. Conrad H. Mann, of Kansas City, Missouri. Col. Mann is chief auditor and legal advisor of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. His visit to this city followed his participation in the dedication of the Eagles Temple in Little Rock, Arkansas, the day previous. His visit here was a short one, but advantage was taken of it by Frank Le Roy, the head of the local order, who also been at the dedication, to take him about the city, including a visit to the local lodge room. Col. Mann is to be present at a special meeting of the local lodge today, when the subject of financing the proposed new building here will be up for consideration.

In addition to his duties with the F.O.E., Col. Mann is a member of the staff of the governor of his state, and is also treasurer of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce. He has been appointed trustee of a $25,000,000 estate in Colorado by the Federal Government of the United States.

Col. Mann, in speaking of the order with which he is so prominently identified, pointed out that it now has 600,000 members and that the assets of the organization amount to $15,000,000. While on account of its fraternal benefits it has always appealed to the wage earning class he points out that thousands of professional and business men are affiliated with the order.

Noted Financiers Back Rum-Runner

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Members of the British aristocracy and well-known financiers of both Britain and the Western hemisphere were back of the scheme to deliver whisky in the United States rum row from Mrs. Casarey's much-advertised ship, the General Barrett. It is stated in a quarter which is in a position to know the facts.

Mrs. Casarey, divorced wife of a wealthy Argentine subject and formerly a British film actress, has announced that she merely leased her ship to others and had nothing to do with the cargo or rum-running scheme which came to naught recently when a controversy arose over the payment of the crew.

Her backers planned that the ship sail ostensibly for Halifax and unload her cargo outside the twelve-mile limit off the United States Coast, when some rum-runner would pay cash and take chances on delivering the wet goods into the United States. Some of the men involved are said to have figured in the British "Who's Who," and in the social register, and move in exclusive British circles.

B.C. Scenery Shown in Local Gallery

Crystal Garden Gallery Exhibits Five Beautiful Coast Scenes by Mr. Digby Robinson

A year ago, on the occasion of the annual exhibition of the Inland Arts and Crafts Society, visitors found their interest attracted by some striking B.C. Coast scenes by Mr. Digby Robinson. This Canadian artist, who has been living here for years, has since then devoted much time to the making of other pictures of similar subject, and in the Crystal Garden gallery will be found some of the results, five pictures of great beauty which give some of the finest interpretations of the grand scenery of British Columbia which have ever been shown. The collection has been selected from Mr. Robinson's studio in Admiral's Road.

The work is done in ordinary school chalks, but the effect is infinitely soft, the effects of distance, size, depth and open airiness are unusually fine. Naturally the scale of color is confined to variations of blue, green, and brown, with here and there just a hint of rose where delicate sunlight reflects from the snows of the far-away mountains.

Early River

The subjects of the five pictures are "Entrance to Loughborough Inlet, 4 a.m.," "Desolation Sound, 8 a.m.," "Knight Inlet, Mt. Lank, 7 a.m.," "Knight Inlet, 6 a.m.," and "Lead of Hute Inlet, 7:30 a.m."

It will be seen by these titles that the artist evidently prefers to work in the early morning. The most impressive quality in his pictures is the sense of loneliness and the tremendousness and majesty of nature. Loughborough Inlet is drawn with cold shadows, bright yet dark blue; Desolation Sound has a touch of bleakness in its atmosphere, the stark summit of a tree-skipt mountain standing in the foreground, with the faint outline of snow-peaks beyond.

Mt. Lank is the largest of the pictures, the great white dome showing in the distance.

Knight Inlet is shown again, an hour earlier. The color is different. Rocks and trees are almost plum-colored, and the reflections in the silent sound are very still. The Head of Hute Inlet has a strong sense of distance. Between the sentinel lines of lesser mountains which rise sheer from the water, the gleaming summit of greater giants shines.

Club Exchanges Property—Legal requirements were last night completed by the City Council for an exchange of property, whereby the city will get a strip of Port Street frontage, 13 feet by 451 feet, and the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club will get a group of reverted lots adjacent to its present property.

Esquimalt Water Question—The Esquimalt Council, with its solicitor and engineer, will interview Mr. E. A. Cleveland, of the Water Rights Department of the Province, this afternoon at 3:30, to present its case with regard to the expropriation of the Esquimalt Waterworks by the City of Victoria.

City Refunds Money—The sum of $1,335, over-paid by Saanich for city water in August was last night ordered refunded by the City Council, which pointed out, incidentally, that the fault for the overpayment lay with Saanich, which had failed to prevent the over-registering of water meters.

Back From Toronto—Mr. J. R. Terry, chief poultry instructor, Department of Agriculture, has returned from a visit to Ontario, where he went to attend a meeting of the committee organizing the world's poultry congress in Canada in 1927. He visited Guelph Agricultural College during his absence.

Isolation Hospital Charge—A communication from the Saanich Municipality was read last night at the meeting of the Esquimalt Council with regard to the charges made by the city for the use of the Isolation Hospital. The letter was tabled until a report from the municipal health officer could be obtained.

Local Councils. Judge MacGill will preside at the evening session on "Immigration and its Relation to Unemployment."

War Memorial Committee—There will be a meeting of the War Memorial committee at 5:15 p.m. tomorrow at the Chamber of Commerce, in order to wind up business connected with the memorial. At this meeting there will also probably be a date set for a public meeting, at which the committee will give a report of their stewardship.

Victoria Farmers' Institute—Directors of the Victoria Farmers' Institute meet at Royal Oak to arrange a series of meetings for the season and to dispose of routine business. The regular monthly meeting will be held at Royal Oak school on October 5, at 8:30 p.m., when a discussion will follow on the water question as it affects the municipality. A prominent speaker will address the meeting.

W.C.T.U. Found Party—The annual found party of the W.C.T.U. Home on Ida Street is to take place on Thursday afternoon, from 3 to 6. Owing to the heavy expense entailed this year in connection with repairs, alterations and rehunging, the funds are rather at a lower ebb than usual, and the need for assistance with the provisions is pressing. Anything in the way of groceries will be welcome, with the exception of rolled oats.

Liberals Nominating Convention—The Executive of the Victoria Liberal Association, in order to avoid misunderstanding, desires to point out to the residents of Oak Bay and the other adjoining municipalities that they are not entitled to attend the Liberal nominating convention to be held this evening. Only residents of the City of Victoria, who are entitled to vote in Victoria at the forthcoming Federal election will be admitted.

Deny Increased Taxation—The Esquimalt Council at its meeting last night declared that the recent report with regard to the threatened increase of taxation, which it was alleged had been circulated through a meeting of the Board of Trade, was entirely without foundation. It was pointed out at the meeting that the finances of the municipality were in good shape, and that a decrease in taxes rather than an increase was anticipated in 1926.

Application Refused—In Supreme Court Chambers yesterday afternoon an application by way of habeas corpus was made by Mr. Harry Bray, of Vancouver, on behalf of David Christian to secure his release from Oakalla following a conviction for stealing a cow and a calf. The offence was committed in the County of Yale.

Funeral of Murdered Man—Nearly two weeks after the tragedy which robbed him of life, Wong Low Fong, Chinese merchant, was buried with Confucian rites at the Chinese cemetery on Sunday. Services were held at the B.C. Funeral Chapel, and then the cortege, which included a carriage for the beautiful wreaths, proceeded to the corner of Herald and Douglas Streets, where the widow and mourners entered cars and proceeded to the cemetery. The pallbearers were Ah Hee, Wong Sing, Lee Jung, Sue Yow Koo, Wong June Wah and Jong Mee.

Liberal Convention—Members of the Liberal Association yesterday seemed fairly well divided in their support of Mr. H. C. Hall and Mr. William Ives, the two party candidates who have announced that they are out for the Liberal nomination in the Victoria riding. The convention will be held this evening at Alexandra House, Broughton Street. It is probable that dark horses will be that either Mr. Hall or Ives will get the nomination. Mr. Stephen Jones was mentioned yesterday as a possible candidate.

City to Secure $6,058 in Taxes From Sale Lots

Balance of 1925 Taxes to Be Paid by Purchasers of Auction Sale Property Reaches Big Figure

The city will realize $6,058.13 in taxes from the date of the sale of the end of the year on property sold at the recent auction of reverted lands, according to a report submitted by the lands committee to the City Council last night.

"A total number of 150 parcels was offered for sale," says the report, "and with the exception of one defaulting bidder all were sold, realizing a total of $149,010."

The assessed value of the improved property is of lands $200,680, and of improvements $52,880. The vacant property is assessed at $189,160. The total assessment, therefore, is $463,720.

The upset price of the properties sold was $231,073.16 and one year's taxes on the whole, on the 1925 assessment and mill rate, is $18,177.42.

For the period from the day of the auction sale until the end of the year, taxes amounting to $3,246.27 will have to be paid on improved properties; and, on vacant property sold, the tax total will be $2,811.86.

The amount of local improvement taxes assumed by purchasers on improved properties is $3,829.99, and the provision of the 1925 instalment on these is $369.42.

The city total expenditure on advertising account was $4,104.78. The three-cent deposits received by Auctioneer C. S. Austin, on behalf of the city, amounted to $14,491. The commission account is as follows:

150 Improved properties sold for $93,525, 2 1/2% commission payable now as per agreement, $2,338.12
Ninety-two vacant properties sold for $55,485, 5% commission payable now as per agreement, $2,774.25

Commission due C. S. Austin Company, $5,112.37
Total deposits received by C. S. Austin Company, $14,901.00
Less commission due C. S. Austin Company, $5,112.37

Cheque paid into City Treasurer, $9,788.63
The balance of commission due C. S. Austin Company is payable when the second payment of 15 per cent is made to the city.

The report was tabled by the Council for consideration next week.

City to Drain Royal Athletic Playing Field

Will Spend $6,000 Before End of Year on Draining and Grading Operations—Call for Tenders for Fence

As part of an ultimate $25,000 scheme of improvements, the City Council last night decided to spend $6,000 on the draining and grading of the Royal Athletic Park before the end of 1925.

The city purchasing agent was last night instructed to advertise for offers for the erection of a twelve-foot fence around the park in return for the advertising concession from the city.

Recommending the grading and draining of the field and the erection of a fence, the parks and boulevards committee advised the Council that during the last twelve months the percentage of gate receipts received by the owners of the ground amounted to $1,879.78. The present overhead expenses, according to the committee, are $1,000 a year.

Alderman Marchant, chairman of the committee, said that the estimated revenue from the park for the next twelve months was $2,738. This estimate had been reached by the committee in conference with representatives of the various sporting groups which would use the grounds.

Alderman Marchant explained. This was the minimum income estimate, he said.

Carrying out of the work recommended would be good business for the city, Alderman Marchant said. It was intended that the grading and draining of the grounds would provide work for the unemployed during the coming winter months.

Maise was being washed and was uttering her customary protest. "I wish," she said earnestly, "that I need never, never have to be washed again."

"I'm afraid," said her mother gently, "that as long as you have me to take care of you you'll have to make up your mind to being washed very thoroughly every day."

Maise pondered for a moment. "Then," she said, "I shall marry early!"

Paris Turns to London for Her Sport Clothes

The knitted sweater is no longer casually selected as an extra garment in the wardrobe of madame or man'selle. It has—and the whisper comes to us direct from Paris—assumed a definite place in the mode. Accessories for the completion of one's knitted costume are chosen with as much care as if one were selecting a trousseau. There is a triumph for England in the newly intensified vogue for hand-knitted things, for in all matters pertaining to sport Paris admits the necessity of.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is no simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads that is to dispense them. To do this get two ounces of peroxide powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads heavily—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are simply disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and sebum from the pores of the skin. The peroxide powder and the water dissolve the blackheads as they wash right out leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. (Adv.)

Fashions and Foibles

By Shirley Sharn

With shoulders narrow, hips slim and contours flat, fore and aft, the straight frock sets the pace for slender styles.

The Autumn silhouette is slender from the top of the small, sleek head to the tip of the small, smart shoe. Alas for the lady who is otherwise! Corsets, dieting, daily dozens, rope jumping—just one misery after another! But clever French dress-makers make frocks with reducing qualities. A dress that does away with pounds painlessly is large enough for ease, but not an inch larger, belted in order not to break the long line, narrowed at the shoulder by its cut, thinned at the arm by the long, close sleeve. For ease, which we must have, there are the plaits.

She is in the United States, with her own world, who has seen Rosalyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia is a young girl, who is a rival of Rosalyn, and she is in the United States, with her own world, who has seen Rosalyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her.

LANDIS, finding himself alone with Lydia, under her spell, decides to use her. He is a young man, who is a rival of Rosalyn, and he is in the United States, with his own world, who has seen Rosalyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her.

Strong as was the attraction Lydia had for him, he had not been so easily won. He would be "temperamental" and exacting.

Back in New York, he dropped her at her hotel. "What about tonight?" It was she who put the question, not her escort. That was a reversal of the usual order of events.

"Tonight?" He looked at her coldly. "It seemed to her, if frightened her."

"Yes. What about tonight? Steve said something about entertaining us, didn't he?"

Landis' jaw had set in the old, stubborn way she knew so well. "And you turned the invitation down."

"But—weren't we—you and I—to be together?" She stood beside the car, on the pavement's edge, looking up at him.

"Certainly—with the other pair. I accepted, as you know. I can't back out."

"Even if I don't go, you mean you'll go with them? She was trembling with an emotion that was partly fear of losing him, but mostly chagrin. Dence, men were not to be trifled with."

"I see no adequate reason why we shouldn't both go!" Landis rapped out the words.

Lydia walked into the hotel. He followed.

"Wait while I run up and change. Then I'll give you some tea." She couldn't trust her own legs any longer in this ruined frock and in her present state of "nerves."

She changed in record time, and was waiting for him as he disappeared into the lobby.

"I've changed my mind about tonight," she told him, with one of her brightest smiles. "Steve really is a decent soul, and the world's growing more and more democratic every day, so why shouldn't we dine with him, his theatrical lady and himself, since he's set his heart on it?"

"He's set his heart on you," said Landis in a flat tone which gave no hint of feeling.

"And you think I'd better make hay while the sun shines?" she supplemented gaily, though her heart sank a little.

moment was overridden by a flame—and that flame was for her. Would the marriage be a generous pre-nuptial settlement?

Everything depended on that fact! From the corner of her eyes Lydia could see Landis and the Spanish girl gazing on the balcony floor. Once married to Van Vorst and his millions, would she really have a definite hold on her former "beau"?

The music stopped, and it was with a certain chagrin she saw Landis vigorously clapping for an encore. "Tiresome, aren't they?" Van Vorst inclined his head towards the couple. Lydia laughed lightly.

"That's easily explained. It's the sea-air that's pumped into the balcony room. Pure ozone. Didn't you read it in the papers?"

"Some new stunt!"

"Quite original idea. Must have cost a fortune. One doesn't see them in the city."

Lydia did not answer. She was furious. Once married to this man, she'd soon put a check on his low feminine acquaintances! Yes, indeed!

But—there was the restaurant that night—it was arranged that the four would meet on the morrow on Van Vorst's expensive yacht—and Mrs. Van Vorst was to be a member of the party.

Rimmer Breaks Course Record

JASPER, A.M., Sept. 28.—Playing his third round on the Edmonton Club course in a return match with the professional of the three Edmonton Clubs on Saturday, J. Rimmer, professional at the Jasper Park Lodge course here, lowered the previous record on the difficult Edmonton course to 71, from 72.

Rimmer was paired with B. Gee, of the Edmonton Municipal course, against Sutherland of the Country Club and Spittal of the Mayfair Club. These three had played the Jasper course with Rimmer last week-end on Saturday. Gee and Rimmer won their match, 6 and 5, and on Saturday morning this pair won again one up. In the afternoon Sutherland and Spittal won by one up, due to superior work on the putting greens.

Rimmer's long drive featured the games and in his first and second times over the course he equalled the course record of seventy-one which he later reduced.

Premier Plans Cabinet Shuffle If Party Wins

Immigration Portfolio and Completion of H. B. Railway Promised Prairies by Mr. King

NEEPAWA, Man., Sept. 28.—Premier King's first appeal to the West tonight was an appeal for unity to defeat the "common enemy." Here in what was termed the heart of the Progressive stamping ground, he urged that Progressives and Liberals should work together for the things they had in common.

Reorganization of the Cabinet after the elections with the portfolio of immigration going to a Western man.

Completion of the Hudson Bay Railway, provided sufficient Government supporters were returned in the West to ensure the carrying out of the Government's policies generally.

Reorganization of the Cabinet after the elections with the portfolio of immigration going to a Western man.

On the Hudson Bay Railway, he declared he believed that the time had come when it should be finished. If he received sufficient Western support to enable him to carry out Liberal policies generally, completion of the Hudson Bay Railway would be one of those policies.

Not Exactly a Promise
"But," he added, "I am not going to promise to a Western audience that I will carry out only one particular policy that is of concern to the West, and to this part of the West primarily, unless I can see my way clear to make good that promise."

"We are trying," he declared, "to bring the West nearer to the East, and we ask you to help us in the endeavor to bring about a united country. We want the light of the West on the policies of our country."

courtesy, in the form of a European meal, cooked by the Abd-el-Krim family's own cook from Meilla.

I was given a tent, with a table, a bed and two chairs, together with a personal servant. The furnishings of my tent were undoubtedly a great concession, for such articles as tables and chairs are the rarest luxuries in the interior of Morocco.

Thus is my personal comfort provided for, in recognition of my representing the press and public of North America.

Now if Sidi Mohammed could only resist some sort of a screen against bombs, all would be well. Bombs have been frequent and furious during my stay in the Rif country.

Still, the European aviation experts cannot be said to be distinguishing themselves, judging by the results of the last few days.

Holy City Bombed
A whole escadrille of seven planes from the French zone bombed the holy city of Sheehan for two hours one Sunday and two hours Monday. The resultant casualties were only two people killed and one wounded. Both of the dead were non-combatants—one woman and a Jew.

The combined French and Spanish fleets bombarded Wadiou and Tgias later. Total casualties were four killed.

A furious bombardment of Addit on another day resulted in only three deaths, two of the fatalities being Spanish prisoners.

It is small wonder that, in spite of the gathering dangers of this war against tremendous odds, the Rif tribesmen are still confident.

Events seem to prove that they are right—that European military methods are of relatively small avail here in the "mountains of Allah."

From reading Spanish communiqués and listening to Spanish general talk, one might suppose that a Spanish airplane never dropped a bomb without killing at least fifty Arabs. The truth about aerial bombing in the Rif mountains is so ludicrously far from the official fiction that along the Spanish front the raids at times have become nothing more than a way of telling time, inasmuch as they always occur at exactly the same hour of the day.

Wonderful Titles
These mountains of the Rif are more suitable for song and poetry than for military accomplishment—great crimson crags hung incredibly against a sky of sacerdotal blue, gorges magnificent, and terrifying, green valleys at peace between protecting precipices. They are at times reminiscent of Colorado. At other times they remind you of nothing else on earth. Their deep burning red is unique, although a mining engineer would explain it promptly in terms of rich deposits of iron ore.

(Tomorrow Mr. Sheehan will interview General Sidi Mohammed on the present and future of the military situation in the Rif.)

Spectacular Funeral Accorded Maharajah

"Mr. A" Follows Father's Cortège Barefoot—Rupes Are Thrown to Crowds

LONDON, Sept. 28.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Lahore, British India, describes the funeral of Lieut.-Gen. Sir Pratap Singh, Maharajah of Jammu and Kashmir, whose death occurred several days ago.

Sir Hari Singh, nephew of the Maharajah, who achieved international notoriety as "Mr. A" in a black-mail conspiracy, walked barefoot, accompanied by the Rajah Poonch, who is the spiritual heir to the throne of Kashmir, the whole distance of the funeral procession, both attired in rough peasant dress.

The dead ruler was buried in full uniform with his jewels. The greatest excitement prevailed among the vast throngs of onlookers as the cortege passed, and rupes were thrown freely and continuously among the crowds.

League Will Be Truly International

Boston, New York and Pittsburgh Will Figure in 1925-26 Schedule—Decision on October 31 at Montreal

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—With the innovation of Canada's Winter sport yet young in the minds of her fandom in the United States, talk is already prevalent that the coming season may see the National Hockey League operating an equal number of clubs in Canada and the United States.

The special meeting of the N.H.L. in this city Saturday made it an almost assured fact that three teams from the United States—Boston, New York and Pittsburgh—will figure in the 1925-26 schedule.

By informally approving the sale by the Hamilton Club of its 1924 team to the club of this city, the league heads took charge of Hamilton's franchise. Rumors this morning has it that when the hockey magazine meet in Montreal on October 31 for the annual meeting of the league the "homeless" franchise may be handed to either Chicago, Cleveland or Philadelphia.

In that event Canada would have the Montreal Canadiens, Montreal Wanderers, Toronto St. Pats and Ottawa Senators in the N.H.L., while a like number of clubs would operate from this side of the border.

The whole thing, however, is yet a matter of conjecture and the last word must come from the Montreal meeting.

College Centre Advocates Probe In Interests of Cleaner Sport

Stevens Institute, Hitherto Prominent in Autumn Scholastic Athletics, Cancels Entire Fall Schedule of Football Games—Injuries Interfere With Education

(By the North American Newspaper Alliance. Copyright, 1925.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Demands from many college presidents for a nation-wide study of the football situation with a view to the elimination of certain alleged evil practices, were reinforced today by a statement from the president of Centre College, champions of the South, and by an explanation from the Stevens Institute of Technology, at Hoboken, N.J., which has hitherto been a prominent contender in the Eastern Autumn schedules, as to its reasons for cancelling all its football games for the forthcoming season, pending a revision of the rules and by-laws of the game.

The statement from Centre College, located at Danville, Ky., is signed by President B. Ames Montgomery, and says:

"I favor an official investigation of college football by a representative commission of college presidents or their delegates, constituted by the Association of American Colleges or by the American Council on Education. Such a commission of investigation should not be dominated by big universities, or by any sectional representation. It should be authorized to get the facts without prejudice to the best interests of any institution, big or little.

Opportunity to Make Money

"The misfortune that has befallen the colleges is that our athletes offer to students, coaches and managers, an opportunity to make money. The opportunity bulks far bigger than the opportunity to forward education. When that happens, education for the purpose of making men—real honest-to-goodness men—is annulled.

"The graduate manager of a large Eastern variety team, in a recent series of syndicated articles, shows that he is afflicted with this malady. The business mind controls him far more dominantly than the educational mind. He exalts the present football system as bringing results through successful recruiting of teams. He shows little concern for the results in the character of the men thus recruited. He makes much of the financial rewards available to a man who is willing to serve as a scout, a 'rat,' a 'widow' or a 'uhlan.' He makes much of the advantages which he claims big business has seen in utilizing the notoriety gained by a college athlete, and the pay which these men have been able to draw for their notoriety.

"I do not appreciate these arguments, because I cannot bring myself to believe that big business puts a higher value on notoriety than on honesty, loyalty and capacity to think comprehensively.

"Dr. Henry Apple's articles on honest football are timely. The present American athletic situation is deplorable.

Open Football Celled Failure

The president of Stevens Institute of Technology, in explaining his decision to cancel the entire fall football schedule of his institution, says: "Undoubtedly there is need for reform in the management of college athletics, particularly football. The decision to abandon football at Stevens was made as the result of investigations conducted simultaneously and independently by Director Davis, of our Department of Physical Education, by a special committee of alumni and by myself.

"The decision is due to the changes in football caused by the adoption of open play. This change in the nature of the game has resulted in a large increase in injuries to players, and a number of these injuries have been so serious as to threaten fatal results.

Results of Injuries

"Incidentally these injuries necessarily kept students from their studies, preventing them from graduating with their classes or threatening them with this misfortune. All our students follow the one full, fundamental course in engineering, and the programme of classes, lectures, laboratories and shop work offers no opportunity for adjusting the course of study to the requirements of intercollegiate athletics, particularly to the extreme demands of open-play football.

"To avoid injuries in the open game, our observations indicate that special physical development is demanded. To this end, players should be kept in special training the year round, pursuing certain forms of exercise during the Winter to train them as football players and also to build them up physically to avoid shocks or to meet these shocks when unavoidable. Players should be called out in the Spring to practice, and provision should be made to keep the players fit during the Summer vacation—independently, if collectively, if possible. All this indicates a programme that is impossible for our students in view of the serious character of our course of study.

"Degrading Influences"

Gettysburg College, in a statement by its president, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, "heartily endorses" a sweeping investigation of football. Dr. Hanson adds:

"In the present state of American college life, we are suffering from an attack of competitive college athletics. Finely-spun definitions are used to elucidate the meaning of professionalism. The ideal of sport for sport's sake has been debauched by the passion to win at any price.

"A small proportion of college students, highly proficient in athletic endeavor, crowds the overwhelming majority of the student body into the grandstand. The chief exercise for the majority consists of exercise of the vocal organs.

Most Balance Needs of Men

"A college course, to be worth anything approaching its cost, must balance the four fundamental needs of a young man—physical, social, mental and spiritual. I believe in college athletic. Wholesome outdoor exercise is more essential in the teens and early twenties than at any other period in life. The college which does not provide this is seriously remise in its high purpose.

"One of the most vicious conditions in present-day college athletics is the competitive bidding for high school athletes. In the wild orgy of securing promising athletic material, practices are resorted to which are a disgrace to modern college life. Every college president is in possession of instances seriously detrimental to the men involved as well as to the institutions seeking their athletic prowess.

"A change will only be brought about by a campaign of education and an honest unbiased investigation of the present degrading influences at work in the realm of college athletics. I shall be glad to co-operate in finding the truth and applying the knowledge gained to the improvement of the situation."

Operating of H. F. Alexander Between New York and Miami Arouses Atlantic Operators

Ships for Coast Mooted

With the sailing of the Admiral liner H. F. Alexander tonight for New York to enter the New York-Miami service in competition with the Clyde-

Empress of Canada
Sails on Thursday
For Oriental Ports

THE Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada, with a passenger list totalling more than 500 and a capacity cargo, will sail from Victoria Thursday evening for the Orient. A distinguished party of British travelers and a large party of influential financiers are among the passengers booked on this vessel.

Mallory Line, speculation along the coast is rife as to whether or not the Clyde-Mallory Line is going to make good on its threat to enter the Pacific coastwise service.

Following the announcement by Mr. H. F. Alexander, president of the Pacific Steamship Company, that he proposed to put his flagships into the East coastwise line, the Clyde-Mallory Line that if Mr. Alexander went through with his intentions that company would come to the Pacific coast with a fleet of new and fast steamers and compete with the Pacific Steamship Company.

A representative of the Clyde-Mallory Line spent several weeks on the coast shortly after it was announced that the H. F. Alexander would be shifted to the East coast, and after a careful survey of conditions recommended that the company come into the Pacific coast trade. Little has been heard from the company since then, but an official is expected on the coast again in three weeks' time. The Clyde-Mallory Line operates a fleet of fifty-two vessels on the Atlantic.

The H. F. Alexander sails from Victoria at 11 o'clock tonight. Nearly 200 passengers will embark on the liner at Seattle and fifty at Victoria. The vessel will arrive here on 5 o'clock, and stay two hours before sailing for San Francisco, San Pedro, Balboa, Colon, Havana and thence to New York.

There is also much interest in the report that a firm of San Francisco marine architects is to call for bids on the construction of a new coastwise passenger and cargo liner. It is believed by shipping men that this event might be the first step of the Clyde-Mallory Line to oppose the Pacific Steamship Company.

To Buy Chum Salmon
At 16-Cent Minimum

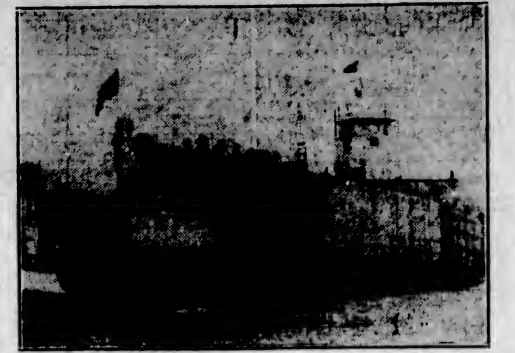

NEW WESTMINSTER, Sept. 28.—Following a five-day tie-up of the salmon fishing industry on the Fraser River, caused by a general strike for higher prices, fishermen resumed operations early this morning.

Mr. W. E. Madden, Secretary of the Fishermen's Union, stated Sunday that the agreement reached with the Japanese salteries to buy the chum salmon caught by the 1,400 fishermen has been confirmed. He states the fishermen will receive a minimum price of 16 cents per fish from the salteries. The canneries refused to consider any higher price than 15 cents per fish. Mr. Madden stated, and as a result the fishermen went out on strike.

New British Battleship Nelson

THE first battleship to be launched in Great Britain in nine years is the mystery ship Nelson. She will cost nearly $40,000,000 when completed.

The ceremony of christening the ship was performed by Dame Caroline Bridgeman, wife of the Right Hon. William C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty. This great vessel is being used as a superphosphate, although some goes into the composition of other forms of fertilizer. The annual consumption is about 470,000 tons.

It is expected that the supply, which is quarried in face workings between pillars of coral, will continue to be available for many years.

While there are other valuable deposits of the mineral in the north western states of the United States, and also in Florida, it is a product in which geography plays a part, and convenience of access by water has made the islands of great importance to the partner countries concerned.

The conference is expected to continue for some days.

Steamer Gertrude, Thought
Lost Off California Coast,
Found Operating by U.S.
Coastguard

Lillehorn Not Heard From

The Belgian steamer Gertrude, reported in Antwerp as missing with a $1,000,000 liquor cargo, was reported only ten days ago as operating off the Southern California coast, according to a Los Angeles dispatch.

The Gertrude has been refused from Vancouver, and is now attempting to unload her cargo. The report says, leaving Antwerp for Vancouver on February 23, the Gertrude passed up the Panama Canal on March 27, since which time nothing had been heard of the craft.

Her owners believed the vessel had been lost, but inquiries made at local and Vancouver exporting houses proved their fears were unfounded.

Movements of the Gertrude were watched from the time she sailed from Antwerp until she passed through the canal, it being taken for granted by United States coastguard officials, because she sent out no wireless movements, that she was a rum-runner.

Where she discharged part of her cargo, and what the future movements of the Gertrude are to be, is a matter of mystery in local shipping circles, although it had been reported that she would change her registry on arrival at Vancouver and enter the liquor carrying business.

The Norwegian motorship Lillehorn, which also left Antwerp about the same time as the Gertrude, with a cargo of liquor, and bound for Vancouver, has not been heard of since she put into St. Michael's because of dynamo trouble.

The Gertrude is a vessel of 644 tons net, and was built in 1914. She is 22.3 feet long, with a beam of 31.3 feet, and a depth of 21.3 feet.

Model of 1825 Stephenson Engine Now in Crystal Garden's Gallery

Working Replica of Locomotive, Built One Hundred Years Ago to Run on Stockton & Darlington Railway, Has Been Lent by Mr. A. H. Pease

While England, with a wealth of historical material, fittingly marks the hundredth anniversary of the invention of the steam locomotive, a genuinely interesting exhibit which would undoubtedly have found place in the Old Country celebration, had the owner been living there, has been placed on view in the Crystal Garden gallery.

It is a working model of Locomotion No. 1, kindly lent to the gallery by Mr. A. H. Pease, of Elk Lake. Locomotion No. 1 was built and put up into use on the Stockton & Darlington Railway in 1825. This veteran, which still occupies an honorable place on an elevated platform at Darlington Station, took a prominent part in the recent centenary celebrations, descending from its throne of state to the tracks, and joining the procession run over the rails. Operated by means of a gas engine concealed inside, the old engine pulled a train which reproduced in detail the coaches and freight-wagons of a hundred years ago, stoker and driver dressed in top-hats and frock coats according to the mode of 1825.

Fifty Years Old
The model shown at the Crystal Garden was presented in 1875, on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the railway, to Mr. Henry Pease, son of Mr. Edward Pease who, with George Stephenson, formed the first Stockton and Darlington Railway Company. George Stephenson was the inventor of the steam engine, and when the project of a railway between Liverpool and Manchester took form, was appointed engineer, completing the line in 1825. Mr. A. H. Pease is a grandson of Mr. Henry Pease, the original owner of the model, and is also a great-grandson of the Edward Pease who was Stephenson's partner.

This model of Locomotion No. 1 stands on a model of one of the bridges of the Stockton & Darlington Railway, so that there is no sense of anachronism in the surrounding detail. Furthermore, the gallery curator has gathered together some facts, accompanied by illustrations, concerning the early days of locomotives. "The Rocket," one of Stephenson's still more famous engines, is shown in one of these pictures. But there is also an actual photograph of Locomotion No. 1 on the occasion of its reappearance in the recent celebrations.

100 Years of Railways
"Although the first pictures of stage-coach travel left us by Dickens and Thackeray make us regard the railway as essentially a thing of our own generation, it is 100 years since the first public railway journey was undertaken with the aid of a steam locomotive in this country." It is stated underneath the picture, "This journey was made along a railway track laid between Darlington and Stockton, a distance of fifteen miles. The engine, which was built by George Stephenson, was driven by Stephenson himself. In front of the train rode a signalman on horseback. There was only one passenger car. It was fashioned on the lines of the familiar stage-coach, and carried six passengers inside and from fifteen to twenty outside. There were thirty-four other carriages packed with goods. The pioneer railway train travelled at a speed of up to ten knots an hour; along favorable parts of the line a speed of fifteen miles was at times obtained. It was noisy and jerky, and the smoke was a source of constant complaint. Each passenger was charged a fare of one shilling for a distance of ten miles, and was allowed baggage not exceeding fourteen pounds in weight." George Stephenson and his engine were much ridiculed, and it was years before the numerous conservative folk accepted the steam locomotive as a fixture in the scheme of things. See—ing this little model and being reminded of the dissimilarity of the wood-engined boiler and the great steel-girdled pattern of today, the gallery visitor will feel a sense of the stupendousness of the germ idea which had its birth in Stephenson's brain.

Colonization Project Brings Promoter Here

Official Overseer of Zion City, Ill., Gives Reasons for Desiring Settlement of Colony in Kootenay

Denies Religious Barrier

A colonization project in the Lardeau district brings here Mr. C. F. Caldwell, of Zion City, Ill., who will be better remembered for his long association with mining operations in the Kootenay, and his crusade as head of the independent mine owners against smelter charges.

Mr. Caldwell has for months engaged in a fight to secure backing for a colonization scheme, in which he has requested the Canadian Pacific Railway to support him but he explains that the interests concerned in the timber leases in New York and Minnesota have not yet agreed on material points. He has been in consultation with officials of the Department of Lands while in the city. This project is in a valley of the Lardeau district, which he says is particularly suitable for farming.

A Mexican Project
There is a similar proposal on the East Coast of Mexico, where a large holding is proposed to be split up into ten acre blocks, for the repatriation of Mexicans who migrated to the United States during the disorders of the years from the death of Diaz to the present administration. Mr. Caldwell says that hundreds of these people were practically penniless when in Mexico, but that the inducement of land at low prices under a secure system of ownership would solve many of their problems.

Is Not Zion City Colony
That his proposal is an endeavor to spread the doctrine of the late J. A. Dowie, of Zion City, where he holds the position of official overseer, Mr. Caldwell denies. He says there may be some from there come to the new settlement, but it will be open to anyone who is willing to work.

Schism in Zion
When he turns from business to religion Mr. Caldwell radiates something of that Puritan simplicity, and devoted zeal which is historically associated with the strenuous days of the seventeenth century. Though the official followers of Dowie are a small minority, as the majority have broken into factions at Zion City, Mr. Caldwell declares they are keeping the faith of their founder unimpaired. He deplores in this generation of a reconciliation between the factions, but in the next looks for a reunion. Mr. Caldwell subscribes to those self-denying ordinances which have made Zion City remarkable among religious communities.
